How Kentucky Girls Kiss.

The Evening Times, of Louisville, this week describes in verse the way the girls in the various towns of Kentucky kiss. The author, whoever he may be, evidently enjoyed such a wide range of experience and he was so thoroughly skilled in the osculatory art as his effusion below would indicate that it would appear to a novice his lips are more puckered now than if he had been eating unripe persimmons. The following is the rhyme:

The Lexington girl, the pride of the State,
In her clinging and soulful way,
Absorbs it all with a yearning yearn,
As big as a ton of hay.

The Frankfort girl bows her stately head,
And she fixes her stylish lips
In a firm, arid way, and lets them go
In spasmodic little snips.

The Covington girl removeth her specs,
And freeth her face with a smile;
Then sticks out her lips like an open book,
And chews her gum meanwhile.

The Danville girl says never a word,
And you'd think she was rather tame;
With her practical views of the matter in hand,
But she gets there just the same.

The Newport girl gets a grip on herself,
As she carefully takes off her hat;
And she grabs the prize in a frightened way,
Like a terror shaking a rat.

The Hopkinsville girl, so gentle and sweet,
Lets her lips meet the coming kiss
With rapturous warmth; and the youthful souls
Float away on a sea of bliss.

The Paducah girl, a creature divine,
Whether wife or widow or miss,
Looks into your eyes with starlit orbs,
And puts her whole soul in her kiss.

The Owensboro girl will at first refuse,
Just to have you insist and plead;
But when she finally gives her consent,
Her kiss, you'll confess, takes the lead.

Richmond girls close their dreamy eyes,
When invited to osculate;
And let the valiant steal the kiss,
Though they really find it first rate.

The Bowling Green girl neither sighs nor pines,
Nor acts in a manner rude;
But she goes about kissing in a business-like way
That catches the average dude.

Cholera in Pennsylvania.

Swickley, Penn.: We had an epidemic of cholera, as our physicians called it, in this place lately and I made a great hit with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I sold four dozen bottles of it in one week and have since sold nearly a gross. This remedy did the work and was a big advertisement for me. Several persons who had been troubled with diarrhoea for two or three weeks were cured by a few doses of this medicine.

Carmencita, the Great Spanish Dancer.

The beautiful and entrancing Spanish dancer, Carmencita, will appear at the Opera House, Thursday night, in conjunction with Glen McDonough's enormously successful comedy, "The Prodigal Father," under the management of Messrs. C. D. Jefferson, Klaw and Erlanger.

The phenomenally great success which attended Carmencita and the comedy at the Broadway Theatre, New York City, surpassed anything known for years. The delightful Spanish dancer and Messrs. Jefferson, Klaw and Erlanger's comedy company will give here an exact repetition of their New York performance. Carmencita, who has enthralled the very highest of New York society for three years, can depend upon a hearty welcome. The New York Herald has likened her to the subtle paintings of Cantic. Her dancing, indeed, is divine, symmetrically sinuous to a degree, and enraptures the beholder. To the entrancing Spanish music of Alphonso Piretto, Carmencita dances the Cachuca as it has never been danced before by any living danseuse. Of Spanish birth, and brought up and trained in the royal court of Spain, as it were, she possesses all the elegance, grace and subtle charm of her splendid nationality, which traits are quickly discernable even on her first entrance. Her dance, El Vito, calls for all the serpentine and situation of movement which can only be expected from a Spanish dancer whose life and very soul seem to be enwrapped in the gracefulness of poetical motion. Take even her dance which she has naively called the Aid-de-Camp and one can imagine that she has stepped from a picture frame. Her costume for this performance alone, made by the great French costumer, Felix, is exquisite in each and every detail. To the music of Alphonso Piretto, she moves with varied motions of the feet and graceful movements of the body, her luxuriant black hair falling gracefully and exuberantly around her shoulders. Messrs. Jefferson, Klaw and Erlanger have secured a rare treat for Thursday night. Carmencita will appear between the second and third acts of the comedy "The Prodigal Father," from the pen of Glen McDonough. The fun of the piece never flags from the rise to the fall of the curtain, and both the New York press and public have declared it one of the brightest and most charming of comedies.

Besides the great Carmencita, Messrs. Jefferson, Klaw and Erlanger's company includes Geo. Denham, Geo. C. Boniface, Jr., Cecil Kingstone, Walter Thomas, Geo. Gaston, Walter Plough, Blanche Chapman-Ford, Cora Macy, Hope Ross, Marguerite Franklin, and Little Irene Franklin.

At the Opera House Thursday night.

Nervous Prostration.

A large manufacturer, whose affairs were very much embarrassed, and who was overworked and broken down with nervous exhaustion, went to a celebrated specialist. He was told that the only thing needed was to be relieved of care and worry, and have a change of thought. He ought to have advised him to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the best remedy for nervous prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, headache, ill effects of spirits, tobacco, coffee, opium, &c. Thousands testify to cures. Books and trial bottles free at J. W. Gayle's. 5

AN HEIRLOOM.

The Pen-written Arithmetic Which Daniel Boone Brought to Kentucky.

"Supt. John W. Graham, of the Adams Express Company, has in his family heirlooms a book which probably has no duplicate," says the Courier-Journal. "It is an arithmetic, 125 pages in length, and contents were written by hand. It was brought this to State on one of Daniel Boone's trips, but has always, so far as is known, been in the Graham family. The Grahams, by the way, are as old a family as can be found in Kentucky, and this arithmetic passed from hand to hand until it was used by several generations. Daniel Boone came to Kentucky in the early 1760's. He went back East and returned with his brother, 'Squire Boone, and Simon Kenton. Then he made another trip, and the Grahams came to Kentucky with him in 1768, thus being one of the very earliest families. Many years before leaving Virginia, probably about the middle of the Eighteenth century, Mr. Graham thinks, the arithmetic was written by some member of the family. It is on very plain paper and has a common paper back, home-made. One branch of the family went to Harrod's Fort, now Harrodsburg. Another went to Frank's Fort, now Frankfort, and with them the arithmetic went. It is held as a priceless heirloom by the family. The Grahams are scattered in every quarter of the State, and they are very numerous, but they all come from those immigrants who entered the wilderness with Daniel Boone."

Mr. Graham, who formerly lived in this city, is a son of the late C. Gran. Graham, who was for many years proprietor of the livery stable on Ann street, and is a brother of Mr. C. Gran. Graham, clerk in the Adams Express office in this city.
